

Swapping Wall Extension

This extension implements a responsive image gallery that automatically and randomly swaps images. The gallery can be used in responsive layouts (with breakpoints) or inside a layout grid for full width/flexible layouts.

Clicking one of the images opens a lightbox gallery, where a larger version of the image can be displayed.

Adding image

Click 'Add' to add a new image. Each image can have a thumbnail image, (optional) large, title and description. The image can either be a URL or a local file.

To add multiple images at once, hold down the SHIFT key while clicking the 'Add' button.

Note that the thumbnails all need to have the same aspect ratio. But the full size images can have different sizes.

Columns

Specifies the number of thumbnails in a row. This property is responsive, so it can be different in breakpoints.

Interval

Specifies the Time between animations.

Duration

Specifies the duration of the animation.

Lightbox

The styling and behavior of the lightbox. Like the overlay background, text style, the color of the navigation icons, transitions etc.
